Triple C Students receive support from Cayman National

Students of Triple C School who were selected to participate in the Global Young Leaders Conference (GYLC) in Washington DC and New York City received financial assistance from Cayman National.

“Eleven Graders, Amanda Bodden, Shakira Bodden and Michaiyah Byran are all well deserving,” said Mrs. Ebanks, Principal of Triple School, “these students will be among approximately 400 hundred outstanding scholars from across the globe who will attend this conference, and indeed, we are extremely proud to have our talented students, not only representing Triple C School but the Cayman Islands”.

“GYLC is a unique leadership development program for secondary school students from around the world who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit, and Cayman National is delighted to provide financial assistance to make this a reality for the students”, said Claudia Welds, Senior Executive of Corporate Communications. We congratulate these students, and know that their experience of interacting with key leaders, as well participating with other students in thought-provoking and stimulating topics will prove to be a worthwhile opportunity for all of them”.

The students will travel during the months of July and August to pursue these leadership opportunities.
