Cayman National's Angelita Small Receives Her AICB

Cayman National is pleased to congratulate Ms. Angelita Small, Senior Personal Banker of Cayman National Bank Ltd., for receiving her professional certification from the Institute of Canadian Bankers. She was awarded a Diploma in Banking with the designation Associate of the Institute of Chartered Bankers (AICB).

Along with this accolade, she recently received the Professional Qualification Recognition Award at Cayman National's 2003 Annual Staff Meeting held in June. She was granted the award for successfully completing her academic programme and for performing satisfactorily on the job throughout the year. "Having recently received my certification, I wish to extend my sincerest appreciation to Cayman National's Board of Directors and staff members for their continuous support and encouragement," said Ms. Angelita Small. "A special thanks to all who always helped me to remember to never give up on reaching my professional goals, and to always strive to perform my personal best."

Since 1995, Ms. Small has been recognised for her outstanding performance during her tenure at Cayman National. Today, she performs the role of Senior Personal Banker, who is responsible for a sizable loan portfolio for local clientele.

"We commend Ms Small for her commitment to professional development and are delighted with her success," stated Ormond Williams, Executive Vice President of Cayman National Bank. "We are confident that her achievement would be an inspiration to others and wish her every success in her career and future studies."

Ms. Small also holds a Liberal Arts degree from Hartford College for Women in Hartford, Connecticut. She lives in Savannah, and she enjoys reading and gardening.
